Porto Venere, Italy (elevation 8 meters, population 4,348)

Named after the goddess Venus, the backdrop to this harbor of 80 berths is the often-photographed row of tall, narrow colorful houses towering over the wide seaside boardwalk and the narrow "Capitoli" alleys. The beautifully restored 6th century church of San Pietro is perched at the tip of the promontory. The "G.H. Portovenere" hotel is a restored monastery with its "Il Convento" restaurant overlooking the sea. The harbor and backstreet restaurants serve some of the best "Frutti de Mare" in Northern Italy.
